Model of Death Chair Used in Appeal for Sacco, Vanzetti

BOSTON, Nov. 29 (By U. P.).—Model of Charlestown prison electric chair, complete with straps, wires and capped sponge, was suddenly exhibited before a meeting of labor representatives here yesterday during an impassioned appeal in behalf of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, now awaiting sentence for murder.

The crowd gasped when Charles Cline, I. W. W. leader, placed a yellow box on the speakers' platform, drew a curtain and revealed the death chair, in which he said the two would die if their release is not forced.

Hall Case Shows Power of Press

skin because of the accident, we do not know.

Revolutionizes World

But we do know that this incident, or something else, started the young man to thinking. In the year 1450 we find a printing press working in Mientz, under the direction of Johann Gutenberg, who had changed his name from Gooseflesh by availing himself of an old German law which permitted a child to take its mother's name instead of his father's if he so desired. His discovery of the art of printing revolutionized the world.

It is said that Gutenberg once dreamed that, as he wrought in his cell at St. Aborsgot Monastery, he heard a voice warning him that the power of his invention would help bad men to propagate their wickedness and spread evil over the earth. The voice further told him that the time would come when men would profane the art of printing and that posterity would curse the invention.

Ultimate Victory of Right

Gutenberg then hurriedly took a hammer in his dream and began breaking the type into pieces. But another voice came to him and bade him desist from the work of destruction and go on with his invention. The voice told him that, though it might be the occasion for much evil, God would also use it as a fountain of infinite good, and through it give the right ultimate victory in all the earth.

Public opinion today is the conscience of the body politic. If it is enlightened and properly guided, it will always prove itself a mighty force for righteousness and truth.

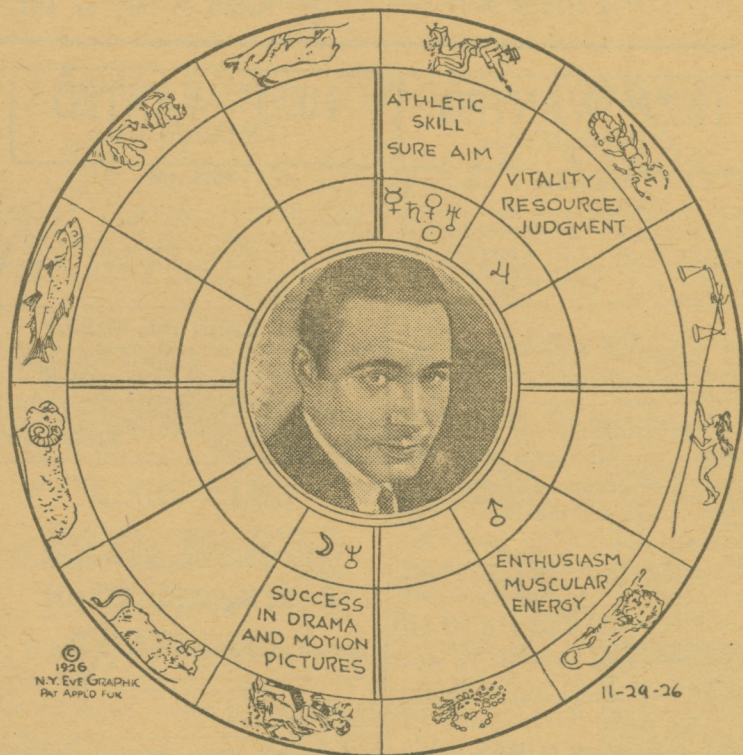

It is at this point that the value of the newspapers comes in, because they are potent and powerful factors in the forming of public opinion; and the further fact that, while America has only 5 per cent. of the population of the world, she has 40 per cent. of the newspapers and magazines of the world, in itself proves what a tremendously valuable asset the papers are in their relationship to the individual and, through him, to our social, political and economic life.

Your Birthday

by STELLA

NOVEMBER 29

ROD LA ROQUE

Rod LaRoque was born in Chicago on November 29, when the Sun and four of the seven planets were in Sagittarius, the ninth sign of the Zodiac. This sign was symbolized by the ancient astrologers as the Archer whose aim was high and whose arrow rarely failed to hit the mark. Mr. LaRoque is indeed a true son of Sagittarius, for he is one of the great athletes of filmdom and is an unusually good marksman. The Moon was with Neptune, ruler of the Silver Sheet, in the versatile Gemini at the hour of his birth, while Jupiter, his ruling planet, was in magnetic and vital Scorpio, which explains why his clean-cut, virile characterizations have found such favor among screen fans.

By picturing Sagittarius as an archer with high and sure aim, astrologers in the dim past sought to convey the idea of the gift of prophecy which many Sagittarians possess. They seem to have an uncanny faculty of sensing intuitively the future—we may call it second sight, or prophecy, or just the plain business foresight upon which many a fortune has been founded. Fiery Sagittarius, at its best, is the sign of the prophet and the law-giver; it is the ruler of the clean-limbed athlete, the true sportsman, the teacher, and the priest. It is also the sign that governs long-distance travel and those born under its influence are rarely content to stay at home. Their fiery, enthusiastic temperament demands freedom, and under restraint they become very discontented and rebellious.

Those who today celebrate their birthday may expect an eventful year. The child born on this day will be both talented and ambitious and will have an uncommon career.

Bares Explorer's Love Exploits

after them, working my way. I located them at Hermosillo, Sonora, Mexico. I had them both arrested and then relented and took my wife back. In Tucson, Ariz., she again left me and I found her reunited with Taylor in an apartment at 1411 North New Hampshire Ave., Los Angeles.

Helped Him Out of Jail

"I want him prosecuted under the Mann act and on other charges. I am starting annulment proceedings and seek damages of $200,000," broke in Mrs. Taylor. "I can also bring Donna Armida Gonzales Orbegosa to testify how he left her. 'He's a Harvard man,' she went on. 'Well, I'm going to send his two sons by his first wife to Princeton. His own mother sides with me and refuses longer to have anything to do with him. And when he was under arrest in Mexico he had the effrontery to wire me a sheaf of messages saying it was all 'a mistake' and that after deep thought in his prison cell he had come to the conclusion he loved but me, and, little fool that I was, I forgave him and went to Washington to plead his case."

She'll Dance to His Trial

"Then as soon as both are free and back on American soil they both fly back to their alliance. I've just secured a theatrical engagement. I'm rehearsing now, but I'll jump the company and dance my way out there to see that he is properly punished."

Advices from Los Angeles quote Taylor as saying, "It is all a mistake and caused solely by the jealousy of my wife in New York."

David E. Sigel, of the Criminal Division, stated that the government was swamped with such cases, but that in this particular case it seemed advisable to extradite Taylor.

Bride Vanishes On Wedding Day

Joseph Collura, 19, today asked the police to search for his bride of four months, Angelina Collura, 17, who disappeared on the eve of her church wedding.

A civil ceremony had been performed and the young couple had so informed Mrs. Theresa Belletti of 6915 13th Ave., Brooklyn, the bride's mother.

Mrs. Belletti wept, but blessed them. Only the week after they were secretly married the bride's father, a wealthy importer, died, and two weeks later Angelina's brother, 16, and her sister, 18, followed him to the family burial plot, victims of pneumonia.

But yesterday when they were to have been married in what Mrs. Belletti, a staunch Catholic, considered "the only way," there was only one to comfort her. Collura came from his home at 21 Monroe St., Brooklyn, to weep with her and to pray.

MISS ADAMS ENGAGED

Major and Mrs. Henry Adams of 934 Park Ave., Plainfield, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anita Adams, to Gibson Buttfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Buttfield of Rockview Avenue, North Plainfield, N. J.
